The Model Rules of Professional Conduct provides an up-to-date resource for information on legal ethics. Federal, state and local courts in all jurisdictions look to the Rules for guidance in solving lawyer malpractice cases, disciplinary actions, disqualification issues, sanctions questions and much more. In this volume, black-letter Rules of Professional Conduct are followed by numbered Comments that explain each Rule's purpose and provide suggestions for its practical application. The Rules will help you identify proper conduct in a variety of given situations, review those instances where discretionary action is possible, and define the nature of the relationship between you and your clients, colleagues and the courts.

Comprising 387 citations, this annotated bibliography is concerned with both the implications of technological change for educational policy and the effects of education on technology. The editors' introduction gives a brief discussion of education and technology in developing and developed nations and notes that the bibliography covers only articles published in English (or in both English and French), primarily in the 1970s. The citations are presented under eight categories, including (1) the impact of technology on education and society; (2) social and educational constraints on technology; (3) technology's effects on manpower training and retraining; (4) technological change in specific industries and professions; (5) planning and development; (6) geographic, regional, and development issues; (7) educational technology, especially for the handicapped; and (8) publications by international organizations. Appended are an author index and a list of English organizations from which to get additional information. (Author/RW)
