Michel Tournier defines the supreme mission of a writer to be the creation of a mythology which allows for interaction with his readers, who seem to be losing their critical faculties in our contemporary, postmodern world dominated by consumption and dizzying technological advances. Our contemporary society has changed due to the end of the modern era with its reigning ideologies. Collapsing after the atrocities of the Second World War, Modernity and the artistic and literary reactions referred to as modernism, have likewise been transformed. Myth continues to represent the collectivity of human existence, yet, in the short stories and novels of Michel Tournier, myth represents the collapse of the all-encompassing ideologies inherent to the Modern era. The grand narratives of Modernity such as Christianity and Man's reason have been deconstructed in the postmodern era. The mythology of Michel Tournier expresses these trends towards the dissolution of Modernity and creates individual, mini narratives which emphasize the particularity of individual existence. Tournier takes established mythical models rooted in Christianity, fables and legends of Western Civilization and re-contextualizes them. Through a semiotic reworking of core binary pairs of a myth, Tournier creates a third-order level of representation which modifies the mythical model. The works of le Roi des Aulnes, Gilles et Jeanne, and Vendredi are illustrious of this third-order level of signification. According to Ferdinand de Saussure, Roland Barthes and Claude Lévi-Strauss, the structural make-up of myth transforms established meanings according to the dominant cultural code. Barthes' semiological study of myth reveals the levels of representation through which myth creates meaning. Myth builds upon the denotative first-order level of language and through a connotative process, creates a second-order level. This connotative process does not end on this second-order, for in the writings of Tournier, this semiological process is continued to a third-order which re-contextualizes the myth again. Tournier adapts myth to the unique traits of the postmodern era including deconstruction and playfulness by allowing the reader to provide the context of the story. As such we, the reader, take the place as author of our own individual mythology.

Une vingtaine d'années séparent la mémorable catastrophe de la Soufrière de Guadeloupe du récent désastre causé par la Soufrière Hill de l'île voisine de Montserrat, à quelques encablures au nord. De fait, éruptions volcaniques, séismes et ouragans rythment le temps de la Caraïbe insulaire depuis l'époque de la Découverte. De ces phénomènes naturels dévastateurs, la mémoire collective a retenu trois manifestations particulièrement tragiques : le tremblement de terre de 1843, l'explosion de la Montagne Pelée en 1902, le cyclone de 1928.

These Studies in Eighteenth-Century French Literature presented to Robert Niklaus were written by former students and colleagues and by his friends, to mark his retirement in 1975. The articles all relate to the French Enlightenment, Professor Niklaus's main academic interest, but vary in approach and subject. Six articles deal with aspects of the works of Diderot: his philosophy, aesthetics, narrative art and style. There are articles on Voltaire - his social, political and philosophical attitudes - and on Montesquieu, among others. The book as a whole is evidence of the continuing vitality of the Enlightenment and makes a fitting complement to Professor Niklaus's own important and lively contribution to eighteenth-century studies.

This work identifies the French-speaking individuals who were labor activists in the United States from 1848-1922, and who were inspired by the European labor unions of their time, mainly the International Workingmen's Association. These

Claude Duneton was a French literary figure of note (1935-2012) and a versatile and prolific writer, whose Parler croquant (1973) first brought him public acclaim. He enjoyed most of all the weekly language articles he wrote for Le Figaro littéraire, from 1994 to 2010, when his life as a writer was cruelly cut short by a severe, disabling stroke. When Claude Duneton succeeded Maurice Chapelan (Aristide) as resident chroniqueur du langage at Le Figaro, he was not without experience in the field, having successfully composed such pieces for the women's magazine Elle during the late 1970s. That period served him well as a preparation for his sixteen years at Le Figaro. The title of his articles, Le plaisir des mots, was perfectly fitting, since his work as chroniqueur brought him the greatest delight and satisfaction, les mots, words, their meaning, their etymology, their often amusing history, their every aspect, being his grande passion. Hermes, Oder, Kritisches Jahrbuch Der Literatur KARTHALA Editions

Mobilities Facing Hydrometeorological Extreme Events 1: Defining the Relevant Scales of Analysis provides a summary of the interdisciplinary work done over the past ten years on the exposure of daily mobility. Residential mobility, the way in which the occupation of the flood zones evolves with time, and the resulting immobile exposure are also at the heart of this work. In the face of recrudescence and the intensification of fast floods, the book seeks to understand how the interaction of hydro-meteorological, social and development dynamics combine to bring about an improvement or, on the contrary, a worsening of both mobile and immobile exposure. The book relies on different fields and studies conducted in the South East of France and more broadly on the Mediterranean basin to answer these questions and verify these hypotheses, with a forward challenge to better understand how population movements are exposed to these phenomena. Provides a synthesis of interdisciplinary work on the exposure of daily mobilities Establishes a diagram of the evolution of the flood zones and the immobile exposure Finds the cause and effect of these phenomena Conducts studies to answer these questions and verify these hypotheses Cinema has been long associated with France, dating back to 1895, when Louis and Auguste Lumi_re screened their works, the first public viewing of films anywhere. Early silent pioneers Georges Méliès, Alice Guy Blaché and others followed in the footsteps of the Lumi_re brothers and the tradition of important filmmaking continued throughout the 20th century and beyond. In Encyclopedia of French Film Directors, Philippe Rège identifies every French director who has made at least one feature film since 1895. From undisputed masters to obscure one-timers, nearly 3,000 directors are cited here, including at least 200 filmmakers not mentioned in similar books published in France. Each director's entry contains a brief biographical summary, including dates and places of birth and death; information on the individual's education and professional training; and other pertinent details, such as real names (when the filmmaker uses a pseudonym). The entries also provide complete filmographies, including credits for feature films, shorts, documentaries, and television work. Some of the most important names in the history of film can be found in this encyclopedia, from masters of the Golden Age Jean Renoir and René Clair to French New Wave artists such as François Truffaut and Jean-Luc Godard.

Chaque Toulousain se souvient du coup de « tonnerre » du 21 septembre 2001 à 10 h17 lorsque l'usine AZF a explosé : la catastrophe a tué 30 personnes, (dont 22 sur le site de l'usine), a blessé, traumatisé, laissé des traces chez beaucoup d'autres. La crise, qui a suivi, a secoué les institutions et les acteurs comme en témoignent les contributions à cet ouvrage qui en éclairent les différentes facettes. D'abord, il s'agissait de gérer l'urgence, de secourir, d'identifier les victimes, de mettre en sécurité l'usine Pompiers, médecins, psychologues, assistantes sociales, secouristes ont tenté d'apporter les secours. Ensuite, la gestion de la crise a conduit les institutions et les acteurs à imaginer de nouvelles mesures, face à cette réalité inédite : restabiliser la vie quotidienne, structurer des réseaux d'aide. La réparation tente de « panser » les blessures, d'assurer le droit. Enfin, que reste-t-il? Une usine fermée, une industrie chimique qui se restructure, des institutions qui répondent à leurs inquiétudes par des expertises, mais aussi une autre façon de « penser » les risques et la société, l'émergence d'une culture de sécurité industrielle, la concertation avec les publics (Loi Bachelot de Juillet 2003)... Que peuvent apporter les chercheurs en Sciences Humaines et Sociales ? Psychologues, juristes, psychiatres, sociologues, économistes, gestionnaires, géographes et spécialistes de la communication, ont fait de la catastrophe un véritable objet de connaissances, et exposés leur travaux lors d'une journée d'étude (CERTOP-CNRS, Université Toulouse 2). Ils montrent que des enseignements théoriques et pratiques sont à tirer de la catastrophe et que les SHS ont un incontestable apport pour les sciences du risque et du danger. Puisse cet ouvrage, faire que la catastrophe économique, sociale et humaine ne se traduise pas aussi par une catastrophe de la pensée.
